STUDIO CLASSES 2010

Dear Painting Friends,

I hope you are having a good winter and that you are painting. I've been painting, writing and making plans for the year. Here's what I'll be doing:

Following an open studio on July 18th, I will teach a series of summer classes here at my lake side home studio for the first time. I've decided to paint at home more, travel less and share our fabulous view.

I can accommodate 5 painters at a time for any one class and can customize a class for your small group if we can agree on a date and format. You will need to bring your own supplies and I'll provide chairs, tables, coffee and refreshments. If weather permits, you may paint outdoors on our decks and patios overlooking Lake Champlain. Bring a lunch to enjoy on the deck. I hope you will accept this chance to hone your painting skills.

We are located 2 hours north of Albany and 1½ hour south of Montreal. We are served by: Burlington International Airport across the lake in Vermont, offering good connections and by Plattsburgh International Airport, just a half hour north of us. Plattsburgh offers connections only through Boston and Florida at this time. The Amtrak train, "The Adirondack", stops in Plattsburgh, where there are many hotels. It also passes by us with a stop just 3 miles from here in Port Kent by the ferry landing. It connects Montreal and New York.

Visit my website, www.annpember.com to see: A demo in progress on the Seasonal Notes page, or information about painting on smooth surfaces on the Workshop page. You can download my materials list; see my studio, gallery, books and videos.

A variety of techniques will be taught. Subjects may include flowers and landscapes. Participants will receive handouts and lessons for personal artistic growth. Out of town students welcome; contact me for motel and other information. I am happy to help you with travel arrangements.

Please email or call if you are interested, or have questions. I will base final class dates on the responses I receive to accommodate people as much as possible. Final dates & times may be changed to suit.

I hope you'll join me for painting fun here on Lake Champlain.

Warm Regards,

Ann
